Oski Watches Berkeley Course Capture

I often used course capture as a student to explore courses, learn the same material from different instructors, and review concepts.

This resource has come up a lot when students ask me for help with classes in general.

What is it?

- A catalog of Course Capture lecture recordings from previous completed semesters

Where is it?

- Berkeley Course Capture (CalNet Authentication Required)

Who can use it?

- UC Berkeley community members. I can still access it as an alumni with my Berkeley email.

Examples

- CS 189: ML lectures from 2015 to 2019

- Last lecture of CS 61A with Prof Dan Garcia giving life advice + rapping in Spring 2019 (freshman me was there)

- EE 127: Optimization

Another related resource is BerkeleyTime

- Berkeley's online course discovery platform by students e.g. sample course selection here
